Dearest Mother:

Well, [illegible] Birmingham, and had lunch with Let[illegible] home today. Daddy is fine, and sure is lonesom[illegible] a brink of the Pizitz's Sunday; it is Sara's boy. And Stein[illegible] is having a bar-mitzva Sunday.

Mother, I talked to Lettie, and she [illegible]ou couldn't stop over in Blackstone tosee me. I don't think [illegible]n either. I don't think you can get reservations here at [illegible]ckett if you stop over. You can see if you can arrange it, [illegible] me know. If not, you had better go on home. Why haven't yo[illegible]n me? I haven't heard a word from you since Lettie left [illegible] haven't heard from you either.

It is very hot here now, and the f[illegible] work. The car is in the shop till tomorrow, and I don[illegible] what I will do tonight. I will be here till Sa[illegible]9/43. [illegible]hen go back to Virginia. Business is OK, and Daddy [illegible]e. He sure was glad to see me.

How about another jar of those nuts [illegible]t me when I get back to camp. How about those addresses o[illegible]lks I asked for in Washington.

Write soon.

[illegible]ve,

Harold
